Wartburg Players To Give O'Neill, Albee, Kopit Plays

Preparing for their parts in the Thursday and Saturday performances of "Oh Dad, Poor Dad," are these members of Wartburg Players. Identifiable are Ken Swenson, Clint Vriezelaar, Steve Reichling and Mary Peters.

Wartburg Players will present three plays by Eugene O'Neill, Edward Albee and Arthur Kopit on Thursday and Saturday in Neumann Auditorium.

"The Rope" by O'Neill and "The American Dream" by Albee will be presented Thursday at 8 p.m. and Saturday at 4:30 p.m.

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mamma's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad" by Kopit will be presented Thursday at 4:30 p.m. and Saturday at 8 p.m.

The cast for "The Rope" will be as follows: Bentley played by Jack Eden, Annie by Beth Diemer, Sweeney by John Prigge, Mary by Susan Lohmann and Luke by Paul Hedquist.

Cast Is Given

The cast for "The American Dream" is Mommy, played by Carol Croft, Daddy by Jim Lovelidge, the Young Man by Randy Wright, Granny by Kris Johnson and Mrs. Bradley by Lynne Bradley.

In "Oh Dad, Poor Dad" Madame Rospette will be played by Mary Peters, Jonathan by Park Leachman, Rosalie by Vicki Johnson, Commodore Rose above by Bradley Williams and Head Bellboy by Harvey Heckes.

Other bellboys will be played by Larry Englund, Mike Johansen, David Strom, Steve Reichling, Ken Swenson and Clint Vriezelaar.

The Rev. Richard Shaper is the director, with Ruth Gerdes and Ralph Lohse serving as student directors for the three plays.

Make-up chairman is Jean Baker; costumes, Harvey Heckes; sound, Ron Wartick; props, Deanna Lange; set construction, Jack Eden and John Prigge; lights, Gretchen Holsten; and publicity, Kathy Wittmann.

"The Rope" is a wry variation on the parable of the prodigal son and provides an interesting contrast to the play "The American Dream", which exemplifies the widespread contemporary aversion to storytelling on stage.

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad" is not a story, but a farce, according to the author. Kopit attacks the impatience of American men, the collapse of masculinity and the prospective Mom.

Film, SB Meet Set For Convo

Showing of the second half of the film "China," will be featured in Tuesday's convocation. The first half was shown in convo last Tuesday. This half to be shown will emphasize Chinese communal or village life.

Thursday's convo will be a student body meeting. The proposed new phone system, or Centrex system, will be the subject of the convocation.

Fall Visitation Set

Fall Visitation Day for high school students and Parents' Day are both set for next Saturday, Oct. 29.

Approximately four hundred high school students are expected to tour the campus, visit with college personnel and take part in college activities, according to Victor Pinke, admissions director.

Tours Will Leave

Registration for the students and chaperones will be from 8 to 10 a. m. in Neumann Auditorium. Campus tours will leave from there.

A special program will be held in Neumann Auditorium from 10:30 to 11 a.m. An hour of counseling with individual faculty members is set for 11 a.m. to noon.

Registration In Gym

Parents' Day will begin at 9 a.m. with registration in Knights Gymnasium. Faculty members will be available in the gymnasium for visits until 10:30 a.m.

A program to be presented by the Wartburg Choir and Wartburg Band will be in Knights Gymnasium at 10:30 a.m.

After the Wartburg - Upper Iowa football game there will be a coffee in the Student Union for parents.

In the float - judging contest North Hall was first, Pi Sigma-Chi Rho was second and Wartburg Hall, Freshman Class and Clinton - Hebron - Cloister were tied for third.

Tickets Available

Students and faculty members may pick up their tickets for the second Artist Series Thursday and Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the foyer of Neumann Auditorium.

The Parisienne theme will be carried out by a supper at a sidewalk cafe and an art exhibit.

Serving for the meal will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the gymnasium. Entertainment will be provided during the meal.

Friday Last Day For Incompletes And Conditions

Last day for students to get incompletes and conditions removed is Oct. 28, according to the Registrar's Office.

Failure to remove an incomplete by that date means it will automatically become a condition and be subject to the rules which apply to conditions.

Rules for conditions stipulate that the permanent grade may be no higher than a "C" if the condition is removed.

Failure to remove a condition will mean that no credit will be received for the course.

Bjorgan Pioneer Of MCAA; Is Host To 1966 Conference

By MIKE SONDERGARD

Among the pioneers of the Midwest Conference in Asian Affairs was Wartburg history professor G. Rudolph Bjorgan.

Meeting on the Wartburg campus this weekend for the first time in history, the Conference featured some of the most distinguished experts in the field of Asian affairs.

Although it was mainly intended for scholars from the Midwest, persons from all parts of the United States were in attendance. There has not been in recent times a more prominent array of top scholars assembled on any campus in this area according to Bjorgan.

Bjorgan Enthusiastic

Bjorgan's interest has been enthusiastic, for Conference discussions cover such topics as imperialism and colonialism, two areas he has covered thoroughly in his course of study.

Interest runs much deeper than that, however. Bjorgan was born on the island of Madagascar, which was at that time a French colony. There he stayed until 1921, when he came to the United States.

Years later, during World War II, he served two and one half years as a lieutenant in the anti-aircraft artillery on the breezy islands of the South Pacific.

Invited To Set Up School

It was there, on the island of Saipan in the Marianas Islands, that he was nearly relieved of his duties as a combat soldier. He was invited to set up a school for some three thousand natives, known as Chamorros.

Unfortunately, his need as a soldier was greater than his need as a teacher, and he was unable to accept the offer.

With such a diversified background, however, it is no wonder he became interested enough to attend the first meeting of the Midwest Conference on Asian Affairs, which was held in Oklahoma in 1952.

Is Original Member

It is significant that he was on the committee which drew up the Conference's original constitution. He was, at the same time, the only one of the original 17 members to attend from anywhere north of Kansas City.

Since that time, he is the only man to have attended all of the meetings, held annually at different sites throughout the Midwest.

Bjorgan has had an additional concern in this particular Conference.

Conference Grows

"With the Conference's growth in size and importance, the larger colleges and universities have tended to dominate the proceedings," he said.

It is his desire to help smaller schools keep their "foot in the door" in such affairs. It was partly for this reason that the Conference was invited to Wartburg for its 1966 meeting.

The meeting itself consisted of round-table discussions and panels by experts on specific areas of Asian affairs. Papers were presented and discussed, to be later published for use as reference by various libraries and even the U. S. Government.

Unable To Attend

Because of the importance of many Conference individuals, some are often unable to attend the meetings because of their urgent need elsewhere.

Among the dignitaries unable to attend this weekend's Conference were Pres. George Beckmann and Program Committee head Grant Goodman, both from the University of Kansas at Lawrence.

Beckmann was called to Washington for an important conference, while Goodman is currently on business in Japan.

Prominent People Attend

Prominent individuals who were in attendance were Vice-pres. Stanley Spector, Washington University in St. Louis; Percy Buchanan, University of Oklahoma; Ping-Chia Kuo, Southern Illinois; and Felix Moos, University of Kansas.

Moos replaced Goodman as Program Committee chairman.

Also attending were two scholars from Michigan State University--Wesley Fishel, Washington adviser on Vietnam, who spoke at last Thursday's convocation, and Baljit Singh.

Others Named

Others included Milton Sachs, Brandeis University, Chae Jin Lee, University of Kansas, Douglas Mendel, University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee; Robert Crawford, University of Illinois, Scott Johnston, Hamline University, and Solomon Levine, University of Illinois.

This year Bjorgan was in charge of the Local Arrangements Committee and helped set up preparations for the Conference here on campus.

There can be no doubt that this weekend's Conference was an important and historical one, thanks, in no small part, to the dedicated interest and work of Wartburg's Bjorgan.

Dr. Wesley Fishel, Washington adviser on Viet Nam, is one of the many notables attending the Midwest Conference on Asian Affairs. Wartburg history professor G. Rudolph Bjorgan, one of the original 17 members, was head of the Local Arrangements Committee for the Conference being held here through today. Dr. Fishel also gave Thursday's convocation address.

'No, I've Got A Meeting' Joining Of NSA Criticized

"Oh, hi! Say, are you going to that lecture on Viet Nam tonight? It sounds pretty interesting. I guess that guy who's gonna speak really knows what he's talking about."

"Yeah, I'd really like to go. We don't get too much of a chance to hear about things like that here, and when they come I don't like to miss the chance."

"Hey, wait a minute. What is today? Wednesday? Gol, darn, I've got a committee meeting to-night, so I guess I won't be able to go. If you miss a meeting, right away they start yelling about how you're not interested enough, and when are you going to start showing a little action."

Is No Time To Hear Speaker

"That must be some committee you're on. Did you go hear that speaker last Thursday night?"

"No, I couldn't. I had a meeting."

"Well, did you see the movie in convo?"

"No, I couldn't. I had to study for a test because I didn't have time the night before because we were working on this idea we've got set up for another committee."

"Well, just what ARE you accomplishing with all these committees?"

"That's kind of a silly question, isn't it? Whadayamean, what are we accomplishing? We're doing lots of things."

"Like?"

Plan Several Programs

"Well, we're planning several programs for this year, and we put out a couple of pamphlets and questionnaires to try to get kids interested, but nobody shows any enthusiasm."

"Well, I know you've got lots of plans, but what have you actually DONE so far this year? I mean, you've already had about five weeks to get something going."

"Yeah, I know, but it's so hard to get anybody to do anything."

"What did you do last year on this committee, then?"

"Well, we wanted to do a lot of stuff, but, you know, first there was Homecoming, and then we had all those vacations. Nothing that you could call concrete was accomplished. But this year is going to be different."

This Year Will Be Different

"Oh, I see. And how is this year going to be different?"

"We're going to have lots more committee meetings so that we can get things organized and then we'll really get down to work."

"But don't you think that if you had less meetings and more doing you'd get more done? I mean, you certainly don't need committees for every little facet of the student government or for extra curricular activities."

"Seems to me this place is nothing more than one vast bureaucracy where nothing ever gets done."

"But we've got all these plans to really make Wartburg into something."

Should Have One Plan

"Okay, I'll go along with that, but why don't you just start out with ONE plan, develop it and make it work? The way you're going now, it's humanly impossible to get everything done that you want to get done."

"We don't have enough students, in the first place; and second, any student who is halfway conscientious wants to get some studying done, too. Granted, grades aren't everything, but in this 'grade-conscious society' we live in they can't be entirely ignored."

"Yeah, guess maybe you've got a point there. Well, I've got another committee meeting right now. I'll talk to you later about this. 'Bye!'"

"Yeah, Bye."

To the Editor:

Concerning the article in last week's Trumpet stating the Student Senate discussed an increase in activity ticket fees of 50 cents which would help finance the Senate's joining NSA, National Student Association, which would require a total of $6-700 in additional funds:

The covert collateral methods of the Intellectual Leftists are often more effective than their frontal attacks. There is such a "soft-sell" left-wing approach being made on the campuses, too.

It is known as the National Student Association. The National Student Association purports to represent the American student community. It has followed a line closely analogous to that of the Communists.

It attempts to convince the people that it speaks for American students when it advocates extreme Leftist proposals.

I think the most important factor is this: the delegates come and ratify resolutions, but they go home after two weeks and leave it up to the national staff and officers to implement them.

These people have a free hand to do just about anything they want, and that consists of pushing and publicizing the radical Left Wing position.

From 1947 to 1961, the membership of NSA was essentially constant at about 385 schools. Since we have been fighting NSA, 77 schools have withdrawn from membership--that's about a 22 per cent reduction in NSA membership.

Fortunately, a group of interested student government leaders, in the spring of 1964, set up an alternative group to NSA called the Associated Student Governments of the United States of America.

This is a non-political group. It does not discuss politics. It is concerned strictly with student government problems.

I think it is a fine alternative to NSA and a group which everyone interested in student government could support.

Usually, this decision is an easy one to make--a queen. But this is not always the case. In the problem for this week, a queen promotion would mean a stalemate.

Letters To The Editor

Viet Nam Letter Refutes Muff

To the Editor:

In reaction to Mr. Mc Cabe's recent column entitled "I-S Ruminates on Rice" I would like to submit a portion of a letter written to me from a soldier stationed in Viet Nam. Not everyone views the war in Viet Nam as a matter involving "trivialities" or time spent "running through the rice paddies."

Why join? Here is an answer based on experience and not mere speculation:

Join Or Get Drafted?

"Why do people join the service

if they are over here because they have to be? Some will answer that it was either join or get drafted. They are wrong. Why join three to four years, knowing you will be sent over here when you can wait until you get drafted for only two years and maybe not even get sent over here?

"Sole surviving sons can't even be sent over here unless a waiver is signed agreeing to it. Or why is there a waiting list of men on Okinawa volunteering to exchange places with men in Viet Nam? Or why did the Marine Corps stop drafting people for two years? Why?

Is Long Waiting List

"Because they had a waiting list of people to come in for three or four years. Why are these men putting in 24-hour days, and then when they do get free time, they volunteer to spend it helping the Vietnamese improve their way of living over here?"

"Sure, the guys here know what is going on back in the States. They don't like it one bit. But they aren't here to fight for them. They have parents, wives, girlfriends, and others who they care about back there."

Can't Force Fighting

"You can send men over here, you can give them a rifle, but you can't force them to fight. They have to want to, and know they have to win."

"Yes, these men have to be over here not because Uncle Sam says so, but because they know if they don't fight here and now, no one else will. They don't want to fight in their own back yards."

Krinkle's Frosh Dictionary

By DEAN KRUCKEBERG

Here I am, worrying about the frosh again. My editor is continually worrying about me because of my "foul habits," so I thought I might as well return the favor to people more worthy than I am.

Kruckeberg

This week I present my new dictionary of common but frequently misunderstood nouns often heard on the Wartburg campus.

You know, just like Webster did, only in a slightly more neoteric manner, with less emphasis on accuracy and more emphasis on getting in trouble with everyone at Wartburg.

If you like this little gem of a literary masterpiece, I advise you to hang it on your wall. If you don't, send it to me, Box 945, with your name and address. I am always looking for more people to slam.

Axe: Don't be silly; there is no "Axe."

Bamboo spike: Is effective in VC land and on the Wartburg campus to discourage time-conscious students from campus-cutting.

Beer: Don't be silly; there is no beer.

Broad: (Better call this an adjective) Describes campus lawn. Cheerleader: Wartburg coed, familiar with the German language, wants our football team to give "bloody hell" to its opponent, but doesn't want to say so in such blunt terms.

Corby: An absolutely ridiculous name for a common flea-bitten crow.

Dumb broad: Describes campus lawn.

English: a useless major. English majors learn that "exempt" is an adjective, not a noun.

Exempt: Something I won't be if I don't start studying.

Fertile Crescent: Very uncouth.

Friar Tuck's: Like the "Axe" and beer, nonexistent.

Happiness: Finding your religion prof at Tuck's.

Insect: Winged creature who sees no sense in flying to Florida for the winter when that nice, warm cafeteria is so close at hand.

Joy: Standing in the caf line for hours so that the cafeteria people can assure themselves that the Waverly grade school children and the residents of Bartels Home are not sneaking through the line.

Krinkle: See yellow journalism.

Men: Built by the Marine Corps and Wartburg.

Neanderthal: Paleolithic man with social and physical similarities to various students on campus.

Quinsanna: I don't know what it's for, but they're shipping it to Wartburg Hall by the truck loads.

Rinse: See Silverware.

Sex: Somebody's been pulling your leg again.

Silverware: Something that doesn't get rinsed. Also see Crud (not in this dictionary, on the silverware).

Telephone: Something we can have in our dormitory rooms for only $45,000.

Uncouth: Describes what goes on in the Fertile Crescent.

Volition: Nonexistent in regard to cutting classes.

Women: Built at Wartburg with help from Iowa corn farms.

Xyster: An instrument for scraping bones.

Yellow journalism: Accusation made by faculty regarding Trumpet articles.

Zymurgy: Goes on in the basement of North Hall.

This is it, faithful reading public. Your abridged, censored and otherwise mutilated Wartburg Dictionary.

Dutchmen Blank Wartburg, Thinclads Lose To Luther; Meet Buena Vista Today To Host Conference Meet

By ED ROACH

Central's defense turned its second straight shut-out as it turned back the Knights in the Homecoming contest 27-0.

With the win over Wartburg the Flying Dutchmen remained in contention for the Iowa Conference crown and maintained their perfect record.

Bitterly cold winds blew many a Paul Specht pass off its mark. However, many of the balls just weren't well thrown. The receivers had trouble grasping the cold pigskin.

Offense Is Poor

Head Coach Lee Bondhus was blunt. "Offensively we stunk," he exclaimed.

"We didn't block well, didn't throw the ball well and didn't catch it," he said.

The Knights had to run into one of the top defensive units in the conference, which is only one of a long succession of formidable ramparts built by Dutch coach Ron Schipper.

Great pursuit was the order of the day as the quick Central line stopped the Wartburg ground game cold.

Outside Route Shut Off

Wartburg also put on its best defensive showing of the year as it shut off the outside route so popular with Central runners.

"We set up our defense to stop Dennis Descoteau, and we stopped him until he broke loose for 50 yards late in the game," Bondhus commented.

The Knights found out that Descoteau, conference top ground gainer, was not Central's only threat, as Doug VanBoven chewed up the off-tackle yardage.

Central Has Advantage

Central had an overwhelming advantage in the number of running plays used, 78-29.

Wartburg had a great opportunity to produce defensive standouts, as it was without the football about 75 per cent of the game. The line backing corps of senior Lyle Wind and freshman Howard Kay did a superlative job of diking the breaches in the line.

In the defensive backfield sophomore Bob Larson of Austin, Minn., and senior Lynn Altemeyer of Baxter were the game's standouts.

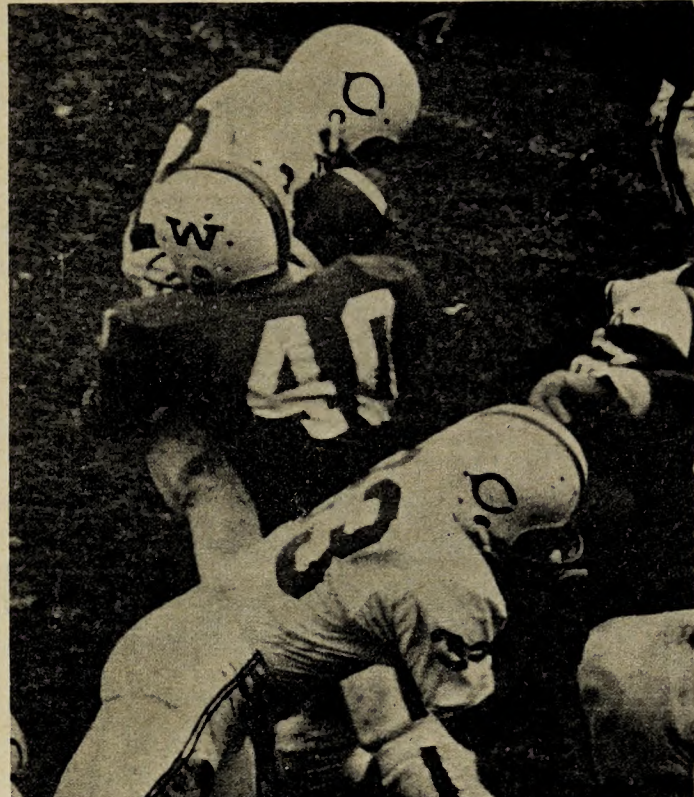

Defense Improves

"The defensive line did a better job than we've gotten out of them most of the year," Bondhus remarked.

"Terry Slingluff did a good job and is developing into one of our better defensive players," he said.

Today the Knights meet Buena Vista in their third Homecoming tilt of the year. The Beavers stand 2-2 in the conference, beating Simpson and William Penn while dropping decisions to Luther and Upper Iowa.

Diminutive Jerry Albert of Hudson wrestles with Central fullback Doug Van Boven as junior Terry Slingluff eludes a blocker for the kill. It was Albert's first week starting at cornerback.

"We're still giving up the cheap touchdowns," Buena Vista Head Coach John Naughton remarked this week.

Use Six Defenses.

The Beavers have used upwards of six defenses this year in an attempt to stem their opponents' attack. Offensively, the Storm Lake team resorts to a straight-T with a split end.

Potentially, the Beaver attack is extremely powerful, with halfback John Peterson as the conference's third highest scorer. Buena Vista quarterback Rick Wulkow has struck via the air route for 738 yards and 10 touchdowns in the Beavers' five games this year.

"It's their Homecoming, and they haven't won a Homecoming game in five years," Bondhus remarked. "We hope we can keep up that tradition."

ference meet we've ever had in terms of depth," said Coach John Kurtt.

Kurtt explained that on the basis of the Wartburg-Luther meet, Luther "definitely is the favorite in the race."

"Luther has real good balance, and in a conference meet such as this, depth is the key," he added.

Karnstedt Favored

Dennis Karnstedt of Central, runner-up in last year's contest, is favored to take individual honors, although he was unable to run in last week's triangular because of congestion.

The Luther meet marked the first time this year that Knight runner Jon Thieman failed to finish first. Thieman was second to Wangberg of Luther.

Holt Runs Third

Rod Holt ran third, Gayle Fick finished sixth and Steve Jaco and Jeff Christensen took ninth and twelfth places.

In the Central-Winona triangular, Thieman, Holt, Fick, Christensen and Kettner were the Knight's top five runners.

Tuesday Wartburg will travel to Platteville, Wis., for a dual meet with Wisconsin State College.

ARTIST SERIES REVIEW

Borge Shows Artistry

By KAREN LAFORTUNE

Sunday night's performance by Victor Borge proved that he deserved to be included in an Artist Series. Besides his obvious talent as a pianist, Borge is an artist at comedy.

The first half of the program was predominantly comedy as Mr. Borge analyzed the audience and set the mood. His jokes were wide in range, from the somewhat slap-stick to the political pun. Facial expression, variety in vocal tone and volume and use of props reinforced the jokes and showed the artistry of Borge in this field.

This half of the program produced some tension in the audience at times because just as the audience anticipated musical selections, he digressed and began joking. Those who expected a predominantly musical performance were somewhat disappointed at this point in the performance.

People who left at the intermission for these reasons, and there were few, certainly missed a great performance. The second portion of the program was centered on music.

Using a light touch, Borge exhibited his tremendous talent as a pianist as he played such serious numbers as Rachmaninoff's Concerto and a Viennese waltz.

Here Leonid Hambro, also an excellent pianist, joined him to make the comedy twice as funny and the music twice as outstanding.

That Borge is an artist was shown from the moment he opened the humorous program until the professional ending of the performance. Although the end could have been sentimental, Borge kept the mood of the program by inserting humorous remarks into the sentimental cliches.
